Lawyer and author Glenn Troyer receives first annual Aspiring Person award

Noblesville, Ind. --- Aspire Indiana presented its first annual Aspiring Person Award to Glenn T. Troyer, partner at the law firm of Krieg DeVault LLP on September 28th at the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon. The award honors individuals and organizations that help Aspire clients achieve their goals through innovative, motivational, and creative ways. It also highlights role models for others in the community, and those that demonstrate character and qualities we all should aspire to.

Troyer was selected for the award because of the legal representation he has provided to hospitals, physicians, mental health centers including Aspire Indiana, and health care providers for more than 30 years. In addition to representing Aspire, he has also been influential in philanthropic efforts ensuring that Aspire continues to be able to make behavioral healthcare services accessible to the neediest members of our community. He is the co-founder of the Indiana Society for Health Care Risk Management (ISHRM) and has co-authored and co-edited the American Society for Risk Management's Risk Management Handbook for Healthcare Organizations.
